The associated students of the University of Wyoming present the . . .

world looks to wyoming

and views a state of contrast — industry beside rugged scenery, hospitality combined with a striking aggressiveness, the old and the new. In the new is Wyoming's university, building leaders who will strive to keep the state of Wyoming continuing along the mountain trail of progress — the same trail which the people of Wyoming have been following since their wagon wheels first rolled across this contrast state.

HONEST LEADERS

“Wyoming, with its almost unlimited resources and possibilities, is a state of exceptional opportunity. Through the outstanding work at the University of Wyoming, we are implementing our vision. We are building, and on a firm foundation, a dynamic and forward-looking citizenry of which this Nation can well be proud.”

“Because the world of this generation is a much smaller place than the world of even one generation ago, young people now attending the University of Wyoming must necessarily be concerned with international problems as well as with state and national problems. The University of Wyoming is doing its utmost to educate for effective leadership and for intelligent citizenship, so that Wyoming may fulfill its obligation to a world that needs the best efforts of all its citizens.”

President G. D. Humphrey

“May I express to all students of the University of Wyoming the great pleasure that I have had in my associations with you during the academic year of 1953-1954. I sincerely hope that the Office of Dean of Men has served you well. Your cooperation and friendship has been greatly appreciated.”

Dean of Men A. L. Keeney

“As the Dean of Women of the University of Wyoming, I am especially pleased to be given this opportunity to send a word of greeting to the students of the campus through this publication. One of the most interesting divisions of the Dean of Women’s work is her association with you students and your activities, and through you, the forming of a unified spirit which may contribute at the time and in after years to your college spirit. Through these activities, you students form a constructive attitude toward traditions which may help in determining your attitude toward life in general.”

college
agriculture

Whether it's roping, riding or reciting, the hard working lads and lassies of the University's Agriculture college are here to show that there is a scientific method to everything. These future pokes agree that four years at Wyoming is a good way to start the long trail that will lead to future agricultural opportunities. Riding herd on these wranglers is Dean H. M. Briggs, who is responsible for ram-rodging the outfit scholastically and maintaining mighty high standards for the future graduates.

commerce

If you have an affinity for punching many mysterious buttons on many mysterious machines and don't mind totaling columns of figures as high as the Empire State Building you'll like the College of Commerce. Whether it's debit or credit, cat and mouse, or just throwing adding machines at each other, the business-minded student will find many fields of endeavor and challenge within the fortified walls of the commerce college which will aid them in the years to come.

education

The guys and gals of the college of education are a hard-working bunch to say the least. A few of the gruelling tasks confronting the modern educator range from observing students from the elementary to secondary levels to the nerve-racking job of practice teaching. The main project of these future teachers is to prove that they really aren't the little monsters they appear to be. Dean O. C. Schwiering is acclaimed by many students for the guidance he has given.

Teachers of tomorrow.

And the next symbol . . .

college of unionology

The Union is the heart of the campus, and to prove this, we offer the following evidence: We find students and faculty there morning, afternoon, and evening. We find them working, playing, and just relaxing. Yes, we see them . . .

In the lounge . . .

At the notions counter . . .

In the fountain room . . .

At the eternal bridge game . . .

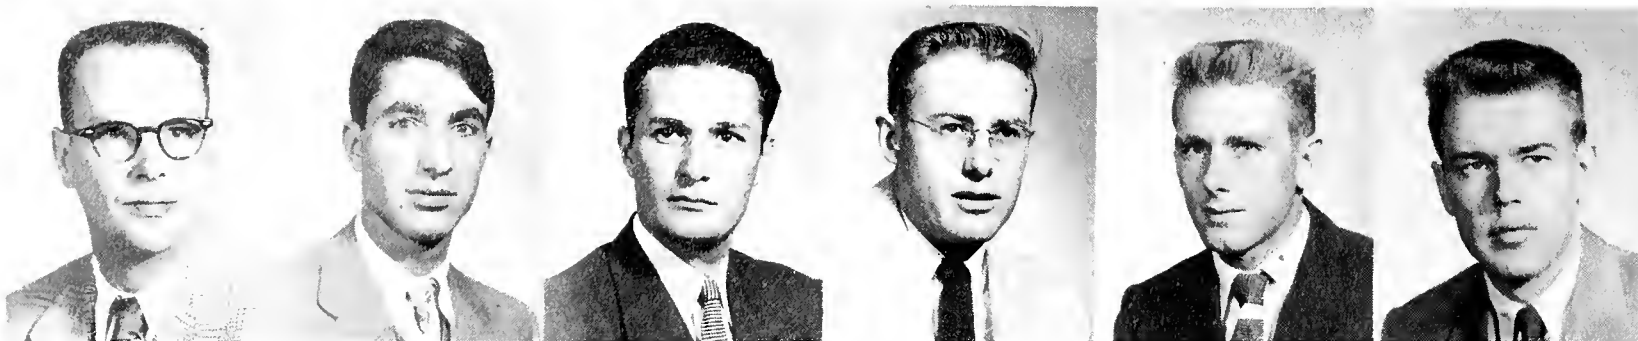

Eating ice cream . . .

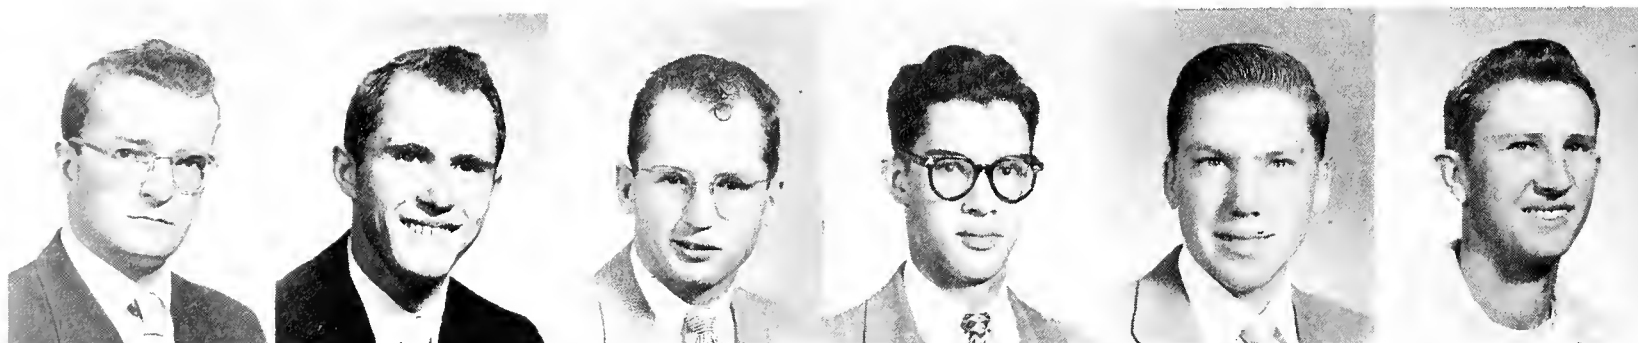

Playing pool . . .

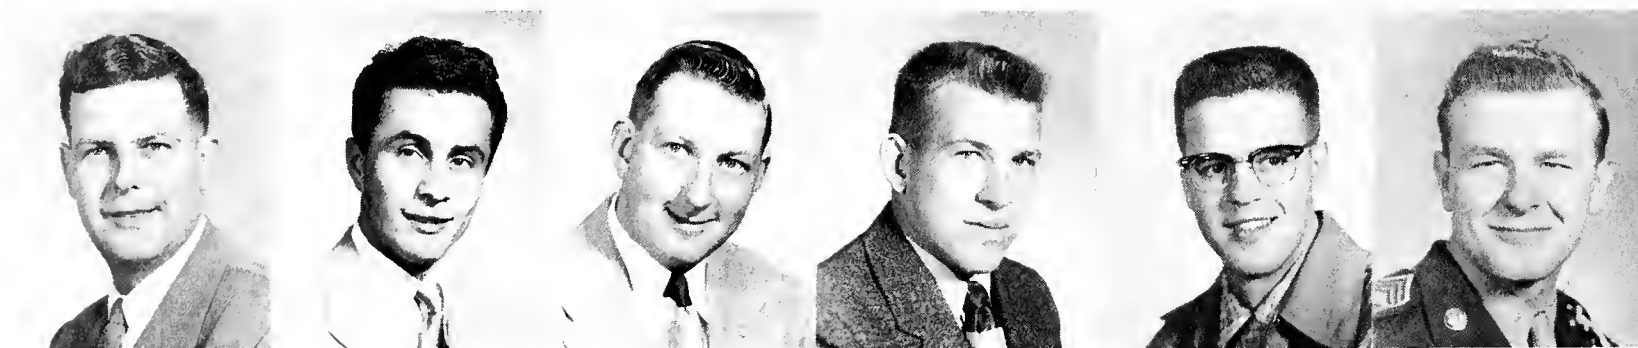

. . . and just talking.

Those mysterious lads that you see wandering about the campus with their long leather scabbards at their sides and those huge telescopes mounted on tripods are not really secret service men, but industrious members of our Engineering College. Whether it's civil, electrical or mechanical, the University of Wyoming Engineering College has them all. We're mighty proud of the fact that the Engineering College is one of the highest ranked in the nation. The guiding hand of all of these mighty colleges belongs to Dean H. T. Person.

Those distinguished-looking men and women you see hurrying about the campus over-burdened with high stacks of expensively-bound volumes reaching to the sky are not text book peddlers, but students of our great Law College. Whether in classrooms of their new million-dollar building or seated intently around steaming cups of coffee, these students will argue about anything from traffic tickets to first degree murder. Dean R. R. Hamilton wields the mighty gavel over these future counselors and can well be proud of the job they are doing in establishing the high standards necessary to promote a sound and effective law curriculum.

pharmacy

Parties, banquets, balls — life of the student in the College of Pharmacy is one of hilarity and ease. Besides working twenty-five hours a day devising new methods to paint aspirin tablets the various colors of the rainbow and then reselling them for high-powered drugs, these masters of the mortar and pestle have ample time for varied outside activities. These may include plotting against the Chemistry department and learning new methods for smuggling drugs out of the laboratories and into the international market. Despite all of these varied activities, Dean D. W. O'Day will release a few of these students every spring to go out into the world and display the wares that they have acquired from one of the finest Pharmacy Colleges in the country.

Students call on Dean O'Day.

college of liberal arts

If you want it, we've got it, should be the motto of Wyoming's Liberal Arts College. This college satisfies some of the most varied and desirable wants that have ever been concocted by the progressive students' mind. Aided by barrels full of major and minor curriculums as well as many commendable professional ones, the college has much to offer the young men and women of the world. Awarding downslips along with furnishing an ample supply of crying towels are a few of the many needy tasks performed by the college head, Dean O. H. Rechard, who is also blessed with maintaining law and order among this great melting pot of future artists.

The world looks to
the hands that govern;
may they do right.

One of the richest and most powerful Student Senates to be found on American campuses today is located right here at Cowboy University. Headed by A. S. U. W. president Paul Carlin, our lawmakers hold open meetings each Wednesday evening at seven-thirty in the Senate room of the Student Union. Always a pioneer in its field, our Senate supervised several activities this year, including the Homecoming queen and her attendants' tour of the State, the Sno Ball, in conjunction with the Outing Club, featuring the Billy May Band, and Cowboy Capers.

Endless points and technicalities are a part of AWS meetings.

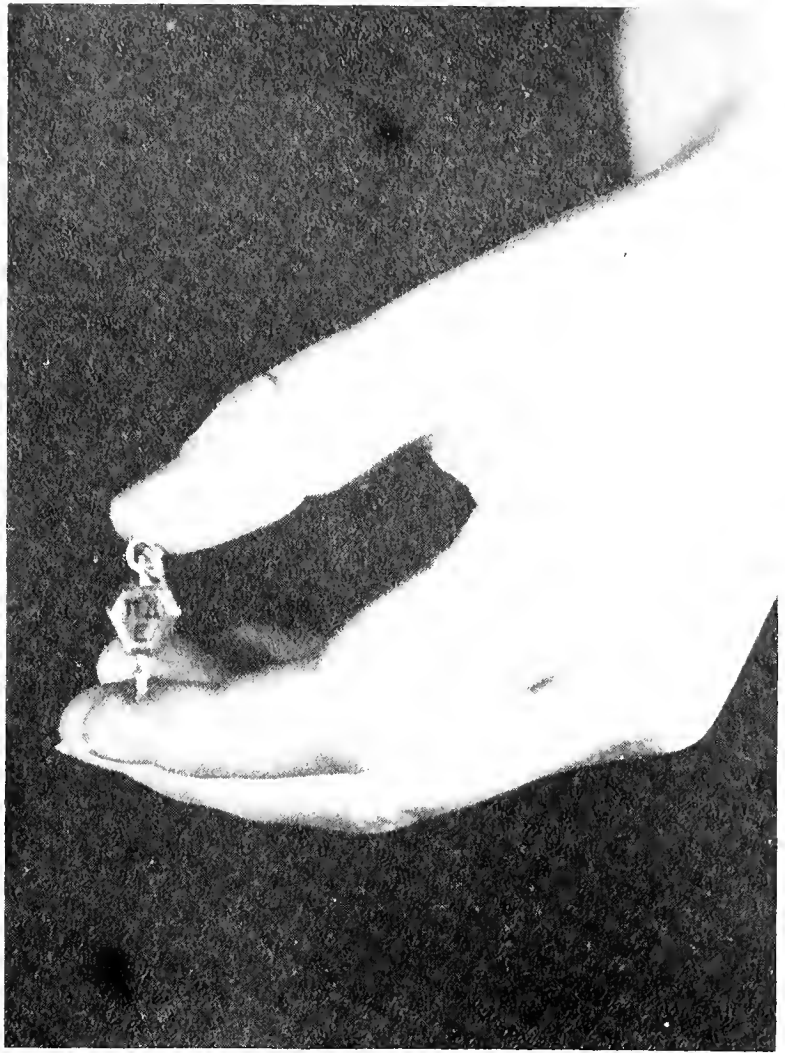

associated women students

Associated Women Students, better known as AWS, includes all girls enrolled in the University. The organization is headed by a board of elected members who have the job of keeping the girls on the straight and narrow. Along with its legislative powers, AWS sponsors Spurs, Big Sisters, Mortar Board, and women's honoraries. In the way of entertainment, a dance and the Freshman Tea are on the agenda every year. Last but not least, AWS awards a scholarship cup to the Independent or Greek organization with the highest grade average. This year Betty Mae Kirkwood headed the group and Dean Galliver was adviser.

ONORARIES

The world looks to those hands which hold the key of honor.

Bill Shinmori

The James Stewart squadron of the Arnold Air Society is an honorary society for advanced AFROTC cadets. The members are selected for their high degree of military aptitude and academic achievement. The mission of the society is to further the purpose, traditions, and concept of the U. S. Air Force as a means of national defense, promote American citizenship, and further the amiable relationship among all ROTC cadets.

This is the organization of high honor in the pre-medical training field, open to sophomores with a five quarter average of 2.25 or better. Goal of the group is to achieve scholarship and understanding of pre-medicine. Highlights of activities of these members is an annual trip to Colorado University medical school in Denver, and the sending of a member to a national convention every two years.

This is the fast-moving honorary fraternity for men majoring in agriculture. The familiar trademark of this group is the high-bibbed overalls with AZ on them. Each year Alpha Zeta offers two scholarships for the incoming freshmen. One goes to the outstanding 4-H member and the other to the promising future vocational major. These scholarships are awarded in conjunction with the Wyoming Farm Bureau. The fraternity is a national one and the Wyoming chapter is certainly one to be proud of.

Big Sisters is the student organization on campus which helps the new women to get themselves oriented. Each member has four or five "little sisters" to whom she literally tries to be a "big sister", helping them get settled in their rooms, giving general information about campus life and activities, and assisting them when and wherever they can. In addition to these opening-of-school activities, under the leadership of chairman Lynn Anselmi, the group this year entertained their little sisters at a party in the Knight Hall banquet room, and assisted at Dean Galiver's tea for new women students during fall quarter.

Pi Mu Alpha, a men's music honorary, is small but active on the Wyoming campus. Their aim is to promote music in and about our fair college. During the year they had a varied list of things which has kept them busy. To start off the year they gave a recital in the fall quarter. They helped sponsor a concert in contemporary American music — that was during the winter quarter. They formed a dance band with nine pieces, which makes it the largest local band around. All during the year they put out publicity for musical activities. And to add to this long list of activities, Pi Mu Alpha, under the direction of Prexy Russell Moore, sponsored an operatic movie.

Here are the educational wizards of the campus. High scholarship and the promotion of high professional standards are the aims and accomplishments of this scholastic organization. Several parties and banquets are also included in this social as well as scholastic group. The winter Christmas party, along with the winter and spring Banquets are a few of the gayer events of the organization.

This honorary is for senior women. If you've got plenty on the ball where it counts and have put in three good years at the University, you might qualify for this select group. Leadership, scholarship, and service are the essentials of the organization, with the emphasis on all three. The senior women's breakfast and the recognition tea honoring girls with outstanding scholarship, are a few of the Mortar Board functions to be remembered.

One of the most important and largest societies on the campus, the UNION, is the controlling center of many campus functions. Unique in that anyone may join, the UNION has a well entangled organization, especially at rush hour. A person journeying through its huge chapter room during the hours of from 10 to 2 would see many of its members discussing world affairs. (Also dates, sex, sports, sex, weather, sex, peanuts, sex, and other light things.) Also worth mentioning is the fact that it has no recognized president, but is managed very smoothly by Larry Clark, the accepted ramrod. Famous for its coffee, and the forsaken mural, it also houses the national inter-collegiate billiard team. Here is the living room of the University, the home of many. It is doubtful that this society will ever be forgotten by any of its members.

A mortar and pestle and an I. Q. of Einstein are all that are necessary to belong to this exclusive organization. This pharmacy and chemistry honorary is strictly all business and ability. Each year Phi Delta Chi presents an award to the outstanding pharmacy student. The annual Founders Day Banquet is the event for this group. Speakers and representatives from some of the large drug and pharmaceutical companies all gather at their quarterly meetings and many high-powered discussions take place along with debates and other forms of endeavor.

Kappa Kappa Psi is the honorary band organization for men. Music and more music is the motto of these men and they aim to promote it, too. Assisting the band director is another one of the useful functions of these musicians. A banquet and a dance round off the activities of the year. Bob Hilton, this year's president, will continue to promote the service and usefulness of the organization.

These are the mighty men in education. To belong to this honorary one must be a male instructor, rank very high scholastically, and be a prominent figure in the educational system. The improvement and betterment of the American Educational system, whether at the University or other associated schools throughout the State, is the aim and pledge of this organization.

When looking for scholars, leaders, and sweater girls, the men to see are the Phi Epsilon Phi's. This sophomore men's honorary chooses its members from the outstanding campus leaders with a sound scholastic average. These lads are entrusted with promoting good school spirit, and so they do. They join their sister organization, the Spurs, in dispensing pertinent facts to new students during Freshman orientation week. Their all-school sweater dance is a good function not to miss.

"It's a businesswoman's world", say these gals of Phi Gamma Nu, commerce honorary for women. Whether behind a typewriter or a mahogany desk, these girls are out to set the world on fire. Aside from their bi-monthly professional meetings, these girls find time to discard their shorthand notes and dictating pads and stream the Wyoming union with bright banners and paraphernalia for the annual colorful Commerce Carnival, which they play a big part in. Teas and other associated functions climax the social lives of these busy women.

Standing side by side with Phi Beta Kappa, Phi Kappa Phi emerges as the top scholastic honorary on the campus. The distinction between the two top national honoraries is merely one of selection. Phi Beta Kappa selects its members from the Liberal Arts college alone, while Phi Kappa Phi may select from any of the colleges. The primary motive of this group is academic. Only a few of the top seniors on the campus may qualify. In conjunction with Phi Beta Kappa and Sigma Psi, Phi Kappa Phi holds its annual Honors Banquet where the appropriate laurels are bestowed upon its new initiates and members.

scabbard and blade

Scabbard and Blade is the honorary organization on the campus for those junior and senior members of the Army ROTC unit who can make the grade. To be pledged to this organization, a student must have high grades both in Military and in other courses. One of the oldest honoraries on the campus, Scabbard and Blade received its charter in 1929. Purposes of this group are to unite the military departments of American universities and colleges, to preserve and develop the qualities of good and efficient officers, and to spread intelligent information concerning the military requirements of our country. Besides holding functions for members, and assisting them in Military, Scabbard and Blade sponsors the annual Military Ball.

Barbara Sterner, President

Tau Beta gives us the feminine touch in the art and appreciation of good music and band technique. This is the girls' honorary band organization. They sponsor an annual spring banquet in conjunction with Kappa Kappa Psi and have planned a tea for this year, possibly to celebrate the fact that they now will be a national organization.

This group of girls composes the honorary Home Economics sorority. These are the gals that can cook, sew, and keep a good house. When they are not stimulating others to follow in their field of endeavor, they take time out for teas, parties, dances, and other social functions. The familiar home management house on the campus is the laboratory for these home-makers.

One of these people should be writing this, for this is the honorary for journalism majors. These people are the most party-giving and sponsoring group on the campus. The gay festivities of the Gridiron Banquet, along with the promoting of the Inkslingers Ball are but a prominent few of the many things this group does. Each year the group comes up with the campus beauty queen, and in their solemn moments a lot of good, creative journalistic work is done.

This sophomore girl's honorary is really on the ball. They do a little bit of everything. Welfare work is their greatest accomplishment. Their numerous services many include work of any type for any department and practically anybody. Their emblem, the bright golden spur on the brown background, may be seen bobbing up and down at all of the ball games, suppressing frantic cheering bodies beneath. They are party-givers, and goers too. Teas, banquets, and balls are all part of their busy and varied campus lives. What else can they do?

Actors and stage technicians with lots of talent and plenty of energy are eligible to belong to this honorary dramatic fraternity. During intermission of their stellar performances, coffee is served to the theater-going audiences. Individual laurels are awarded to outstanding thespians for acting, as well as technical work done behind the scenes. Initiations for those that can qualify are held twice yearly. These people are the real promoters behind our University theater. Leading the troupe this year is Stanley Brooks, president.

Reorganization is the key note this year for the Independent Student Association. Defunct for the past several years, the group is now actively participating in campus activities. Formed to give independent students the benefit of all social activities, the organization sponsors hour dances every other Monday night, roller and ice skating parties, box socials, and a semi-formal dance. Four independent groups participate in the Homecoming Sing and sponsor Homecoming Queen candidates. Personalities in the group are Joe Cassinat and Millie Payne, Student Senate; Donna Marburger, Who's Who; Pam Peeks, Joyce Thomson, Ted Peeks, and Bob Brush.

Nearly every town in Wyoming and nearly every state in the nation are represented by the members of this Catholic group. Activities are based on the three principals of Newman Club, religion, education, and social life. Thus, the program includes study groups, films, panel discussions, dancing, and even ping pong tournaments, to mention a few features. Officers this year are Orley Arthur, president; George Bull, vice-president; Fritz Carroll, recording secretary; Jo Savory, corresponding secretary; John Martinez, treasurer; Aileen Micheli, social chairman; and Msgr. John McDevitt, chaplain.

Workin' and Watchin'

These gals started the year off on the right boot by soaring to first place spotlight in the Independent section of the Homecoming Sing under the direction of Donna Marburger. President Mildred Payne takes charge of regular meetings on the first Monday of each month, at which time they plan their activities — a dance each quarter, including a spring dinner-dance. She is assisted by vice-president Peggy Glass; secretary Shirley Sellers; treasurer Marlene Christensen; AWS representative Ruth Schamber; and housemother Mrs. Donnell. Each Tuesday night the girls dress for dinner, after which they have some form of entertainment.

Along with the other members of the Laramie Presbyterian church, this year the members of the Westminster Club had not only a new church of which to be proud, but also a new student lounge. What with laying tile, starting a library, and gathering wood, the group has been hard at work on their new meeting place. The results have been up to expectations, with the new room turning out to be a very attractive gathering place for these Presbyterian students. Christmas is made extra special around the campus by the triptic which is set up in front of the Library by members of the Red Pencil, organization of majors and minors in the College of Education. Purpose of the group is to prepare these future teachers to become members of education organizations and to prepare for teaching positions. Each year, besides setting up the triptic, around which is played Christmas carols, the organization gives a tea for the Future Teachers of America when they visit the campus. President this year is Patty Hamilton; vice-president, Jackie Casey; Natalie Smith, secretary; and Mary Long, treasurer.

Awards for service in the band are given at this time: a silver key for one year; a gold key for two years; a sweater for three years; and a bronze plaque for four years. Edgar Lewis is director of the group; Charles P. Seltentrich, assistant director; and Clarence Dexter, drum major.

The choirs at the University of Wyoming make several presentations each year. The A Cappella choir, consisting not only of University students, but also of townspeople, prepares and presents one major choral work annually. Under the direction of George Gunn, the group has recently presented "Messiah", "Elijah", and "The Seasons". Accompanying the choir is the University of Wyoming orchestra, made up of some fifty faculty members, townspeople, advanced high school students, and members of the University student body. Directed by Robert R. Becker, the organization presents concerts throughout the year. High among the list of important yearly activities is the annual concert, held the evening before Baccalaureate. Advancing from a group of individual musicians at the beginning of the year to a well coordinated unit by the time the concerts are presented, the members of the orchestra put in a lot of work and time to try to achieve the perfection for which they strive. These two groups of musicians provide each year invaluable public relations for the University.

Two ROTC units on the campus comprise the military instructional units of the University. Senior unit is the Army ROTC regiment, which is an infantry unit this year for the last time. In the fall of 1954 it will change to a branch general group. The Air Force ROTC unit is relatively a newcomer to the campus, being founded in 1952. The honorary organizations of the two units, Scabbard and Blade, and Arnold Air Society, jointly put on the annual Military Ball.

Present world conditions require that the youth of America be prepared to stand ready in the defense of its country against aggression from any source. Many of the students of Wyoming are preparing for this responsibility under the reserve officers training program offered by the University. The leaders of tomorrow are preparing today for the command of other Americans in any struggle which may develop. The mission of the ROTC is to provide these future leaders with the practical knowledge and ability which will enable them to accomplish such tasks in a competent and efficient manner. Basic students and selected advance students study and analyze the many facets of army duties so that they may be prepared for the heavy responsibilities which lie ahead. Their goal — to become better Americans and better commanders.

Laramie, Wyoming

Dear Mr. Smith,

Without question, this has been one of the most difficult Beauty Contests I have ever been called upon to judge.

I feel a great sense of responsibility in choosing ONE GIRL, out of fifty beautiful contestants, as your QUEEN.

But a choice had to be made and after long and due appraisal and consideration, my final decision rested on the fair and classic brow of Miss "35", as your Ink Slingers "QUEEN".

To Her Majesty, my heartiest congratulations and to the other Beauties my sincerest greetings and deep conviction that they all deserved the crown.

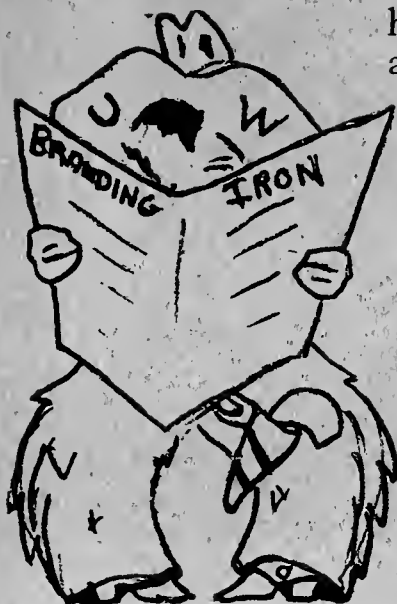

Again thanks a million for having asked me to act as judge, and hoping the final choice meets with everybody's approval and with most cordial greetings to you and your associates,

I am sincerely yours,

A. Vargas

snipe

Snipe, the campus humor magazine, made one brief appearance on campus this year. That issue contained many chuckles, as a result of which, the student laughter resounded from Fraternity Park to Wyo Hall and the girls' dorms. It finally reached Old Main, where it was heard by the Administration and the Board of Trustees. As the laughter was not mutual, Snipe was banned from the campus because of its rare sense of humor. Not all of Snipe was devoted to humor, however. Editor Dick Cook and his staff, business manager Larry Mishkind; photographer Paul Holtz; ad editor Skip Roberts; artists Carlos Boeira, Don Kelley, Barbara Brooder, Nancy Lubnau; contributors Jack O'Neill and Ralph Parlett; and a long list of salesmen, also presented in their magazine an interesting story or two and the freshmen pin-up pictures. Snipe was replaced by Touchee, the first issue of which was published in March. Snipe is gone, but Touchee will carry on the tradition.

Each Friday noon you can pick up a "B. I." (campus slang for the University newspaper). The group this year did a survey of the University bookstore, and carried out a policy of polling the students' opinion on pertinent campus affairs before editorial criticism was printed. Dave held the editor's post for two quarters and then Paul Holtz stepped into his shoes quite capably spring quarter. George Cox took charge of the business affairs for the year, Bettye Zuck handled the society page, while Ralph Parlett and Jack Russell took care of the sports column.

Rather than pack the next few lines with flowery compliments and an exchange of slaps on the back, a few kind words dedicated to those martyrs who edited this year's WYO would be more appropriate. The staff and this year's fighting editor, Bob Smith, hope you enjoyed the maze of splashing colors and three-dimensional photographs that appeared earlier in the book. This is the first time a college annual has attempted 3-D. This is also the first time that the WYO has had a four-color photo on the cover. Hope you enjoyed the experiment. Since the production of the annual represents a lot of money contributed by the students and the University, it is only fitting that we offer a generous hand of thanks to those who have sacrificed their health, grades, and jangled nerves in order to bring you a fine yearbook.

Along about the middle of the fall quarter a small table appears in the lobby of the Union, and word gets around campus that the new student directories are out. This little book is considered invaluable by most students, particularly the boys, as it contains the name, Laramie address, and telephone number of every student and staff member at the University of Wyoming. Katherine Stenberg, Pam Cleaver, and Laura Larson served as staff.

Wallace Biggs and Warren Mack are two men who have a big influence on all University of Wyoming publications. Much of the credit for this WYO and for every issue of the BI is due to these two men, who direct the activities of all student journalists. To be brutally frank, girls, I think that 35 campuses aren't enough for a penalty.

The local Panhellenic Council represents the national "All-Greek" council at Wyoming. Headed by president Nancy Bane, the council, composed of two representatives and an alumna from each group, sponsored rush week at the beginning of fall quarter. Pan-Hell formulated the policies for rushing and social functions. During winter quarter the council sponsored a dance in conjunction with the I.F.C., The Trojan Tromp. At this dance the "Ugliest Man on the Campus", who, in this case was Howard Brokaw, was chosen. This year, as last, Pan-Hell continued the practice of honoring the five girls in each class with the highest scholastic averages by presenting them with scholarship keys at the Torch Light Laurels, the annual women's honor night. Wyoming's Pan-Hellenic Council is considered one of the most active in the Rocky Mountain region.

Joe Bowman, President

The Interfraternity Council is an organization composed of two representatives from each of the eleven fraternities on the campus. Its purpose is to promote better relations among the fraternities as well as between the fraternities and the administration and the community. It encourages "Help Week" activities rather than Hell Week. The IFC also strives for higher scholarship within its membership by sponsoring a scholarship trophy for the fraternity with the highest grade average each year, as well as a plaque for the fraternity whose fall quarter pledge class has the highest grade average. In conjunction with the Panhellenic Council, it sponsored the Trojan Tromp Dance at which the "Greek Queen" and the "Ugliest Man on Campus" were elected.

The active Alpha Chi's have been in and out of many activities this year. They received second place for the Most Original Float in the Homecoming activities; and first place for their Snow Sculpture during the annual festivities during the Ski Meet. Their chapter contributed to the Alpha Chi Omega National Cerebral Palsy Project in which they held a party for crippled children and adults in Laramie. The leaders in this group include: Spurs Kay Krajicek, Mary Blatt, JoAnn Thorburn, and Barbara Stratton. Bev Dawson is the president of the Alpha Chi's.

Psi Delta chapter of Chi Omega has come a long way since its installation in 1933. Chuck-full of campus leaders, the chapter boasts such girls at Kathy Stenberg, Student Directory editor; its president, Shirley Dempster, also delegate at large for the orientation committee, and Iron Skull member; Kay Mickey, Linda Dudenhaver, Mellee Luton, and Barbara Dusek, who represent the Chi O's in the Spurs. The whole chapter will remember their most successful winter formal held February 5th. The decorations were based on the theme, "Blue Champagne". The Chi Omega chapter hopes to be building their hard-earned house by next year. They've been busy all year long planning, dreaming, and raising money for it. Wyoming University's youngest national sorority will be the last group to join the rest of the sororities in Fraternity Park. All five of the other groups are looking forward to have the Chi O's as new neighbors. Something to work for, isn't it gals?

They've done it again! The Delta's captured their third straight victory by winning the Homecoming Sing. Their spotlight of achievements shine upon Cris Poulos, who is cheerleader, and also an Air Force Sponsor; Susan Twitchell, Little International Queen; Joyce Holm, Diane Picard, Nancy Kidd, and Patty Tomsik representing Delta Delta Delta in Spurs. Dawn Sheahan, Susan Twitchell, Lou Ann Jarrett and Marilyn Snelling are Air Force and ROTC Sponsors; Iron Skull members are Ann Woodworth and Jan Maebius; and Ruth Ellis is their member of Mortar Board.

What fun for all Fraternity Park to have such active girls as the Kappa Deltas for new neighbors this year! Just to start off the year's activities, Suzie Rodriguez, a KD from Venezuela, was elected as Homecoming Queen, and the group placed second in the Homecoming Sing. Military sponsors for the year are Ann Traill, JoAnn Haycraft, Cynthia Peterson, and Rae Lee Kreps; president of the sorority is Donna Ayer, who is also a member of Kappa Delta Pi and Pi Gamma Nu honoraries; Mortar Board member is Ann Traill; Pam Cleaver is editor of the Student Directory; and Ann Traill was chosen as the Most Popular Girl on the Campus in an all-school election last spring. National Kappa Delta was founded October 23, 1897, at Virginia State Normal, Farmville, Virginia. Kappa Delta Sorority has the distinction of being the first national sorority to become publicly active in our national emergency. The local chapter, Rho, was founded May 15, 1914, and ranks third of the six sororities in date of installation on the campus.

The vivacious girls from the big red brick house have captured for themselves many highlights for the year. Lainie Holkenbrink brought to the Kappa Kappa Gamma chapter the title of "Miss Wyoming", and was also chosen Cadet Colonel for ROTC. Betty Mae Kirkwood, an outstanding leader on the campus, holds such honors as AWS president, Panhellenic representative, a member of Who's Who, Mortar Board, and the Student Senate. Lynn Anselmi, another prominent leader, is chairman of Big Sisters, a member of Who's Who and Iron Skull. Spurs include Joni Crofts, Mary Long, Martha Moedl, and Sally Hunter.

Lambda Delta Sigma was founded at the University Utah in 1936-37 and was installed on the Wyoming campus in 1937. A combination fraternity-sorority, LDS is composed of both men and women students. Sponsored by Mormon students, the organization is characterized by a five-fold program: social, religious, scholastic, recreational, and cultural. Owner of a palatial home far surpassing most others at Wyoming, the LDS Institute provides a place for social, religious, and educational functions. LaNeil Reasch and Duane Berrier are the 1953-54 presidents of this split entity . . . LDS.

Kappa Sigma was founded at the University of Virginia in 1869, and installed on the Wyoming campus in 1921. The Kappa Sigs are the only boys who can look across to the sororities on Fraternity Row. It's a mighty hard task to list all the prominent Kappa Sigs here at Wyoming, but here's a quick rundown of outstanding members: Bob Smith, Who's Who, our Wyo editor, and represented Wyo U. at the 58th Congress of American Industry in New York. Gerald Le-Beau, president of the K Sigs, is also a member of the U. W. Livestock Judging Team and Student Senate. Other senators include Bob Smith and Jim Wagner. Heinie Meier is vice-president of ASUW and a member of Who's Who. Ed Patrick is business manager of ASUW and also a member of Who's Who. Iron Skull members are Don Jones and Bud Nye. Chuck Richardson is the Wyo business manager. The K Sigs went in for social activities too. Highlighting the year were the Pledge Dance and the Dream Girl Ball.

Starting the year off with a bang, the Phi Delts built a giant silver foil rocket ship, which won first place as the most original. Their athletic prowess was displayed as they captured the coveted Intramural Trophy for '53. Outstanding Phi Delts this year include: Jack O'Neil, president of the chapter, and chairman of both the Orientation and the Homecoming Coordinating committees. John Crow is their student senator; Tom Love is assistant editor of the Wyo. Earl Perry was voted the Most Popular Man on Campus. The Phi Delts also placed third in the Homecoming Sing this year.

In 1889, Catholic students at Brown University, Providence, R. I., saw the need for a Catholic fraternal organization. On April 29, 1902, a charter was issued by the state of Rhode Island, setting forth the purposes of the organization and changing the name to Phi Kappa. Chapter after chapter was added as Catholic men saw the need on their campuses. Phi Kappa in its teachings, its ideals, its aims, its spirit, has a background centuries old. It carries on in the life of modern colleges and universities the same principles of philosophy and theology which Christ taught and His teachers have promulgated through 2,000 years of Catholic history. Phi Kappa was started here in the fall of '49. In 1950 they received their charter from national. This year the Phi Kaps have participated in various activities, including intramural sports, weekend picnics and outings, annual dances each quarter, and many others. Maurice Frere is the president of this fine organization.

Being the oldest fraternity on campus, having been affiliated with SAE in 1917, Wyoming Alpha of Sigma Alpha Epsilon plans to build its new shrine at Fraternity Park soon. Nevertheless, the grand old traditions of this outstanding, well-rounded frat, remain the same. Homecoming brings the ever famous and colorful SAE Kilty Band Parade, winter quarter the Bushman's Hope, and spring quarter, the beautiful Spring Formal. Active participation in every activity is the most notable tradition with the SAE fraternity.

The classic social event of Sigma Chi is the Sweetheart Ball, recognized as the standout fraternity dance on the University campus. Other events such as the Baby Bawl, Sigma Chi Derby, and the Pirate Ball highlight the social calendar. Top social events aren't the only things the Sigs are noted for. This year Cadet Colonel Ed Wren, BI editor Dave Mobley, law student Bill Foster, and All-American athlete and student body president Paul Carlin represent Sigma Chi in Who's Who. Senators Tut Ellis, Scotty Robb, John Gosney, and Bill Foster help guide the student government. In Intramural Athletics, the Sig basketball team is hard to beat, while in varsity athletics Bill Demontbreun and Walt Whitesides ably hold down line-man berths on the great Wyoming football team. The Wyoming chapter of Sigma Chi was installed on our campus in 1930. Jesse Whiteman is the president of the Sigs.

Winners of the 1953 Cowboy Capers are the Sig Ep's and the KKG's. This is the third time in a row for the Sigma Phi Ep's, a practice which has nearly become a tradition with them. A busy year of activities for the boys included their fall quarter Sadie Hawkins dance, and their winter and spring quarter formals. Big-Wigs in the chapter are Jack Rhodes and Bob Pearce, Iron Skull members; Otto Nakano, Phi Ep representative; Orley Arthur, Ed Christensen, and Bob Looney, members of Scabbard and Blade. The Sigma Nu's started this year off by winning first place in the Homecoming Sing and first for the most beautiful float. During Fall Rush Week they pledged 44 new members. Their fall pledge dance was the beautiful annual White Rose Formal and their always famous Chanticleer which held the spotlight in the spring. The Sigma Nu campus leaders include: Jim Herd, Jim Neilson, John Field, and Bob Phillips, Who's Who. Jim Neilson is president of Alpha Kappa Psi, the commerce honorary, and Bob Phillips is president of Alpha Epsilon Delta, the pre-med honorary. Dick Cook was editor of the Snipe magazine. Student Senate members are Jim Herd, John Field, and Jim Neilson. In the University Theatre, Bob Phillips held the lead performance in "Harvey", while Bob Pinney had lead parts in the plays "Moliere" and "Pygmalion." In athletics, Jim Herd was runner-up tennis champion in the Skyline Conference for '53. Elwood Hanes and Bob Phillips did a good job cheering the cowboys on.

Remaining the youngest fraternity on the campus, the Tekes have grown to a competitive group, participating in every campus event, winning the Cowboy Capers trophy in the Men's group last spring quarter. They also placed second in the '53 Homecoming parade. Their annual pledge dance, The French Cabaret, was the outstanding function of the fall, as was the Sweetheart Dance in the winter. Spring quarter found the group enjoying themselves with the alumni during the Spring Round-up.

Each opponent on the Cowboys' tough ten-game schedule was "up" for their contest with Wyoming. Surprisingly enough, the Pokes were at their best in losing efforts. Utah nipped them 13-12, Iowa found the going rough in a 21-7 victory, and Oklahoma A & M rallied in the final quarter to win 20-14. Wimp Hewgley, Dale Haupt, Joe Mastrogiovanni, and George Galuska won all-conference honors.

wrestling

Coach Ev Lantz returned from California to guide his wrestlers to victories over such inter-sectional powers as Minnesota (18-11) and Carleton (35-0). Perhaps the most impressive performance by the Pokes was a 14-14 draw with strong Wisconsin. Dick Hockley, undefeated during conference competition, brother Bob Hockley, and sophomore Bob Royce led the Cowboys into the Skyline tournament at Fort Collins.

Hard luck and a bad string of injuries plagued Wyoming's young and inexperienced skiers this year. Coach Fred Richardson and Russ Hynes paced the slatmen throughout the season. The entire squad is composed of underclassmen, with the exception of exchange student Tore Skotner.

Verne Gale's mermen were relieved of any chance of placing in conference competition when Jim Dillon, free-style artist, suffered a head injury and was unable to compete. Dick Miller proved to be the top Cowboy swimmer, though Ron Zwonitzer and Leon Tuttle copped several firsts.

basketball

Bill Sharp sinks a bucket as the Cowboys defeat Utah, 66-54.

Harry Jorgenson's knee injury during the first Denver game set off a series of bad breaks for Wyoming's second place Cowboys. Bill Sharp sprained his ankle during the great victory over O.C.U., and though he led the scoring during the season and had the high for one game with 28 against Utah, he regained his form too late to help the Cowboys catch Colorado A & M. Jay Mulvehall was benched after producing the top point average during the first portion of the season. Defensive ace Ron Rivers was the top rebounder and an all-conference selection.

frosh basketball

Coach Oris Chamberlain, in his initial year as frosh basketball tutor, guided his charges to a 5-3 record for the season. Paced by the hot-shooting Pinedale star, Ed Luman, who averaged 15 points per game throughout the season and made the top individual performance of the campaign by dropping in 27 markers against Denver, the greenies topped the Aggies of Colorado twice, Powell J. C. twice, and D. U. once. Chuck Wagner was the Pokes' playmaker.

Coach Glenn R. (Bud) Daniel

The 1953 squad was pushed into second place in the conference standings by New Mexico during the late stages of the season. Eleven returning veterans boosted Coach Bud Daniel's hopes for a pennant for the current year. The Pokes will be without the service of their top hitter, Gus Angelos, who was lost through graduation. In addition to pitcher Thornton Bromley, the Cowboys will have last year's infield intact. Shortstop Bob Jingling, the Waddie's leading hitter in '52, will attempt to regain his form after a bad slump last season.

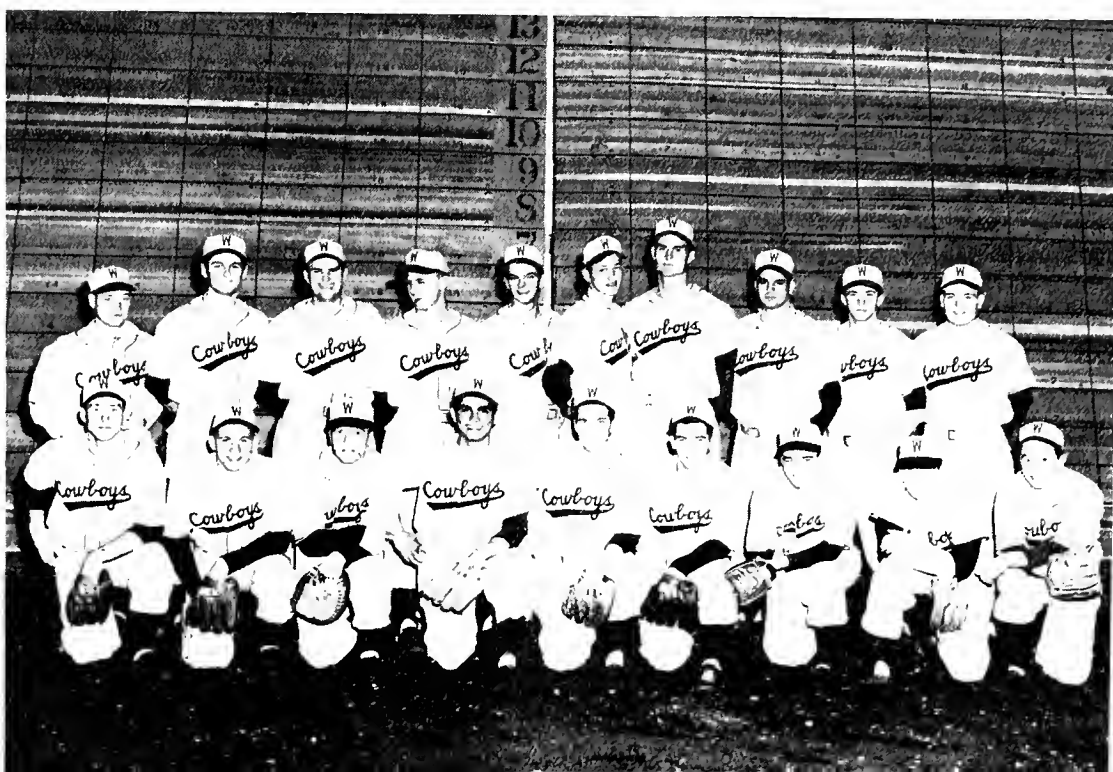

The Poke chuckers limber up their arms at the start of the season.

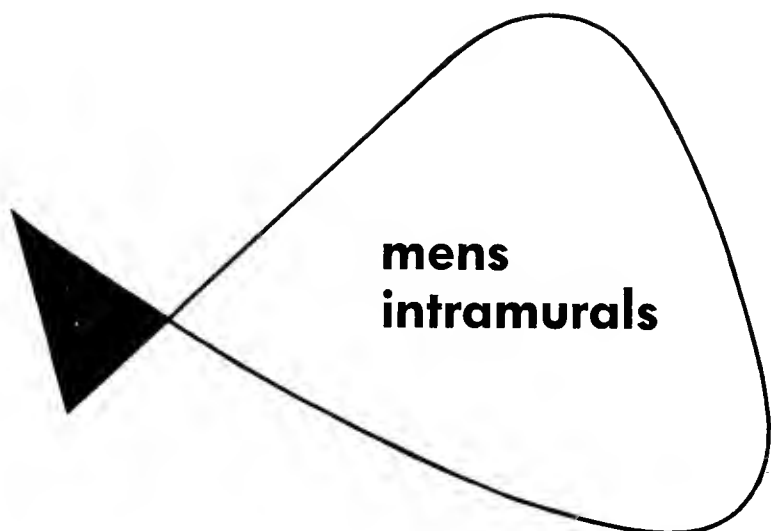

Pretty good for having your eyes closed.

Football champions, SAE, shown in a huddle.

Phi Delta Theta copped the championship trophy in '53 by nosing out Alpha Tau Omega. A tight four-way race marked this season of play in the fraternity league. ATO, Phi Delta Theta, SAE, and Kappa Sigma were racing down to the wire at press time. Intramurals were given a shot in the arm this year when director Orland Ward announced that varsity athletes would be permitted to engage in all sports, excluding the sport in which they lettered.

Wyoming captured its third consecutive intercollegiate billiard title this year. Jay Mulvehal, Poke cage star, wound up in the top three elite of university players throughout the nation for the third season in a row. Two years ago, Mulvehal was tops in the nation. Paul Frazier and Willard Vanderbur composed the other members of the three-man team.

Wyoming coeds, under the supervision of Ruth Campbell, are offered various competitive sports such as archery, tennis, volleyball, softball, fencing, and swimming. Sorority rivalry adds spark to the program.

Grab that ball.

Just like Sharp.

Women can hook too!

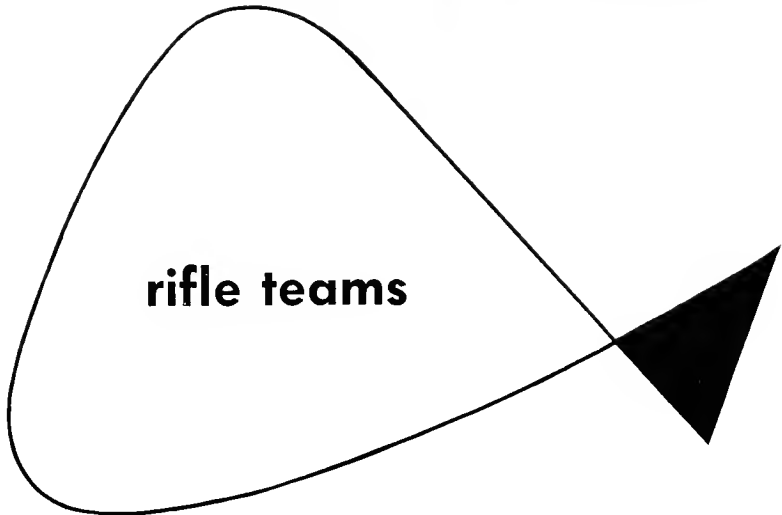

Too much reach.

The varsity and ROTC rifle team has fired in every conceivable match this year. Among these were postal matches with teams all over the country. In some fifty matches, Wyoming emerged victorious in forty. The squad fired in the first radio rifle match held in the nation this year, and also placed eighth in the William Randolph Hearst match. The group classified teams in classes AA, A, and C in state meets. The squad took away first place honors in the state class C.

Posing for the camera, some of the members of the varsity team take up the prone position.

Watch out fellows, these gals are armed and know how to use those rifles. The girls came into this year headed by a state champ, Joann Ball, and gave quite an account of themselves. In shoulder to shoulder matches they won over Colorado A & M twice and University of Colorado once, while losing to the University of Denver. In postal matches the girls again came out on top, winning seven and dropping three.

The Girls look at the proof of their marksmanship.

The world looks to those hands which will shape tomorrow's world.

Nine Girls, 20 Men Selected As Leaders

1847 Down Slips Out

On November 20, 1953, twenty-nine students were elected from the University of Wyoming campus to the 1953-54 edition of "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges." Election to this select group is based on scholastic records, leadership, participation in extra-curricular activities, citizenship, service to the University, and promise of future usefulness. This year's group was made up of nine women and twenty men. Twenty-two seniors were in the group, the other seven being juniors. Unlike many honor awards, "Who's Who In American Universities and Colleges," does provide a service for those that are chosen. Who's Who can help a student in seeking employment and will always serve as a worthwhile reference.

1954 WYO FEATURES . . .

OPENING SECTION IN 3-D
4-COLOR LITHOGRAPHED COVER
CLASS SECTIONS BY COLLEGES
GLAMOROUS QUEENS
STRIKING PHOTOGRAPHY

Congratulations . . .

TO EDITOR BOB SMITH, ADVISOR WALLACE BIGGS,
AND THE 1954 WYO STAFF!

We have enjoyed working with you this past season, and hope all readers will enjoy and appreciate the many special features which make this such an outstanding yearbook.

Actually, the making of a meaningful book — one that is more than just a picture album — is a complex process. Creative ideas for themes, layout, and copy are all-important, along with a smooth-working plan of organization.

A part of our job is to help each editor achieve a distinctive personality for his book. We sit down together and work out ideas for original theme, art treatment, and copy. Our tested and proven plan for handling all the hundreds of production details gives the editor more time for actual editing.

Our flexible lithographic process gives yearbook planners a thrilling freedom in use of artwork, pictures, and color. Specify Wheelwright Lithography for your next book.

"Which direction's up?"

The last pages flip together and the 1954 WYO is finished. Another edition of the University of Wyoming yearbook takes its place with the forty-odd others. The office is cluttered, empty, except for me, and strangely quiet. It's time to think back, see the mistakes, the humor, and the work that went into your yearbook. Yes, there's been a lot of work in these 288 pages. The office has been busy for ten months. Busy while the division editors and their staffs drew layouts, ran down names, and did those million things which always arise; and believe me, they did a wonderful job. There were other staffers who put out their best in performance, too — Bob Knox writing copy, Polly Ekdall doing the art-work, Paul Holtz, Andy Andrikopoulos, and George Reynolds, the photographers. On the business end, Chuck Richardson and his assistant, Carl Occhipinti, ran advertising, kept accounts, and collected bills. It was a large job, a maddening one at times, but they came through. And always on hand when I needed them were Tom Love, the assistant editor, and the trouble-shooters, Sharon Joyce during the fall quarter, and Emily Summers the rest of the year. To you, Tom, Sharon, and Emily, my heart-felt thanks. After the book left our hands it went to our publisher, Wheelwright Lithographing Co., where Max and Lorin and their competent staff, plus Joern Gerds, took the material and finished the job. Along with my sincere thanks to them go my apologies for all the over-run deadlines and straggling pages which sometimes plagued us. There are many more people that have helped with the '54 WYO; and to all the un-named, a word: Thanks. It's been a long road with an uphill grade, but I believe the sight when we reached the crest was worth it. The sight we see when the world looks to Wyoming, your state and your school.
